Soundproof Wall System Used at New Horizons

Remember the old saw about the "walls were so thin you could hear your neighbor drop a sigh?"

Well, all that is history. Thanks to some simple metal strips which, when incorporated in the construction of a home, make walls as soundproof as if you lived all alone in a castle surrounded by a moat.

The soundproof wall system, developed by U.S. Gypsum, is being used in all common walls and ceilings at New Horizons South Bay, adult recreation and garden home community in Torrance, according to developer, Ray Watt and Jack Anderberg, U.S. Gypsum regional manager.

"The system is quite simple, but highly effective," said Anderberg. "Ordinary walls are constructed by attaching wall surfacing directly to wood studs. As a result, sound is conducted by the studs through the wall surface and into neighboring units."

"At New Horizons, however, long strips of angled metal, which are called 'clips,' are first fastened to the studs. Then the wall surface is attached to the clips at the angle which does not touch the studs. Sound conducted by the studs are transferred to the clips which 'hold' the sound and does not transmit it to the wall surface."

A similar metal clip system is installed in ceilings at New Horizons-South Bay so that sound from second-level residences is not transmitted downward, Anderberg explained. In addition, the walls and ceilings are separated by a whole row of staggered studs and double thickness of fiberglass batt, pong, horse-shoe and croquet facilities.

Each resident becomes an equal owner with his neighbor of all the community facilities, a "bonus" included in the price of the home.

Residency, according to Watt, is limited to families to families in which one spouse must be 35 years old or more or to single persons 35 years old or more. No children less than 18 years of age must be permanent residents.

New Horizons-South Bay is on Sepulveda Blvd. between Crenshaw and Hawthorne Blvds. in the city of Torrance.

Is that REALLY the same woman?

It is. Same dress, earrings and hair-do, too...but the pictures of this 43-year-old housewife were taken 3 months apart.

What made the big difference? What firmed those sagging contours that detracted from an otherwise pretty face? What made her look so much younger that it's hard to believe this is the same woman?

She didn't have her face lifted, or experience any significant weight change. What she did do was use the Zeigler Facial Exerciser...regularly, faithfully.

The Zeigler Facial Exerciser is a remarkable electronic unit that helps to stimulate facial circulation...gently exercises facial muscles that are beginning to sag as a result of normal processes of aging.
